

ITMA ASIA 2016

23-09-2016

Novedrate 23 September 2016 - KiiAN Digital has today announced that it will showcase its advanced eco-friendly sublimation inks designed for industrial textile printing at ITMA Asia (21-25 October 2016 – Hall H5 • Booth C06).

The company's market-leading range of 12 specially engineered inks contain reduced or no hazardous chemicals. Many of KiiAN Digital's leading inks comply with a number of the key textile standards, including the Digistar HI-PRO series that recently passed Nike's Restricted Substance List (RSL) testing.

"ITMA Asia provides the ideal platform for us to showcase commitment to sustainability through our growing portfolio of eco-friendly inks. Passing Nike's RSL testing is a great commendation to our continued commitment to a sustainable business approach, not only for us as an ink manufacturer, but also in providing solutions that allow our customers to offer more environmentally acceptable products," says Martin Swift, JK Group Marketing and Corporate Development Director.

Thanks to its vast gamut of 14 striking colours, the Digistar HI-PRO series is a great sublimation solution for the production of supreme-quality high-fashion apparel, endurance sportswear and equipment. In terms of textile applications, the Digistar HI-PRO range offers supreme image quality and is quick-drying, perfect in the production of applications like sportswear. Sold in over 90 countries worldwide, the Digistar HI-PRO range is the company's bestselling product and offers a host of benefits to printing companies and end-users including rapid system set-up, less downtime and increased quality, providing customers with lower production costs and improved profit margins.

Digistar Evo will also be featured. This particular ink offers remarkable printability for printers equipped with two DX7 print heads.

Visitors to the stand will see the extensive textile applications achievable with KiiAN Digital's full-product range, including high-fashion apparel, endurance sportswear and household textiles.

The company's advanced portfolio comprising of 81 colours – the most comprehensive gamut of striking, vivid colours for sublimation printers –facilitating mass-customisation, improved speed-to-market and colour-matching repeatability. Tailored for direct and transfer printing, the inks are fully-compatible with a number of leading print heads including Kyocera and Ricoh.

See Kiian Digital at ITMA Asia on booth C06 at the National Exhibition and Convention Centre (NECC), Shanghai from 21-25 October.
